Dreamy Old Waltz to Take Place of Tango

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The old-fashioned dreamy waltz is coming back and before another year has rolled around will have replaced the tango and other acrobatic dances which have so long dominated the ball room, according to dancing masters attending their two weeks' convention here today.

"The tango and its offshoots have had their day," said President Thomas McDougall, Pittsburg, of the American National Association of Dancing Masters. "Everywhere dancers are tir-ing of them and are returning to the dances our parents danced when they were young."

The convention plans to announce ew dance Saturday.
